

European Educational Research Quality Indicators Workshop
September 17-18, 2010
University of Geneva, Switzerland

Invitation to the 2nd workshop of the project "European Educational Research Quality Indicators": September 2010 in Geneva.

Since April 2008, the European Educational Research Quality Indicators (EERQI) project has sought to develop new indicators and methodologies for determining the quality of educational science research. New technology enhances the process. Eclipsing the usual bibliometrics, this new approach takes into account multiple educational research methodologies in a multilingual framework. Once validated, the proposed standards might also be applied to other social sciences and other areas of the world.

Now three quarters of the way through, the project enters an important new stage with this second workshop. The workshop will give the opportunity to review the progress and discuss findings.

We kindly invite education researchers from all around the world to discuss our preliminary results and further plans.

The website of the 2nd EERQI Workshop is online. Please register via the weblink in order to facilitate the organization: http://www.irdp.ch/eerqi\_2010/ (French and English Version available)
